AUGUST 2006

President's Report by Scott Godshaw

Two members tie for Grievance Representative at Briggs

In the election for the 1st and 3rd shift Briggs Grievance rep position, two members, Jackie Goodwin and Dennis Clark, tied in the vote.

Due to the tie, a run off election will be held at the Union office at 8500 W. Capitol Dr. on Wed. August 9, 2006. You will be able to vote between 6a.m. and 8 a.m. or between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m.

This grievance rep position opened when Greg Weber retired on July 1st. The member that wins this election will fulfill the rest of Weber's term. The term will end when we have the next election for Grievance reps which will be held in March of 2007.

Contract Books

Also at Briggs everyone should have received a contract book from your facilitator on Thursday July 27th. If you didn't receive one, ask your facilitator for one. The company will supply you with a contract book. It was called to my attention that some contract books had wrong numbering of pages. If you notice your contract book is in error, see Laura Flees in personnel to exchange your book.

Strattec

At Strattec, we had an arbitration case on July 20th. This was a policy grievance where Strattec closed down the whole building on January 2nd. The arbitration went as well as it could, but you never know how an arbitrator is going to rule. We should have an answer by November.

The CSI - Continuous Service Improvement is in full swing. We recently brought in a safety woman to Strattec that used to work for PACE but now, of course, is working for the Steelworkers. She and another safety person from the International checked out the service area and have referred us to an ergonomic specialist that also works for the Steelworkers.

Legget & Platt built a new facility in Auburn, Alabama to be close to the Briggs plant there. Here's to everyone that has ever worked as a member in die cast. Here's to your work ethic, your perseverance, your dedication and your ability to work in extreme conditions. Die Cast, you will be missed.

USW Local 2-232 endorses Governor Doyle

Membership approved the motion of endorsing Governor Jim Doyle for his re-election campaign. The election will be held on Tuesday November 7, 2006. It is imperative that the governor be re-elected.

The governor has been a friend to labor and the labor movement certainly needs the Governor to be re-elected.

Jim Doyle was sworn in as the 44th Governor of Wisconsin on January 6, 2003. He is the first Democratic Governor of Wisconsin in more than 16 years.

Governor Doyle has proven to be a strong leader, working in a bipartisan way to get Wisconsin back on track.

When he took office, Governor Doyle inherited a $3.2 billion deficit – the largest deficit in Wisconsin's history. Governor Doyle faced the challenge head on and balanced the budget while holding the line on taxes. As a result, state taxes as a percentage of income are now the lowest in 34 years.

Now Governor Doyle is working to move Wisconsin forward – creating jobs, expanding access to health care, and most importantly, investing in Wisconsin's future.

When Governor Doyle took office, the national economy was deep in recession and Wisconsin was no exception. Through his "Grow Wisconsin" agenda, Governor Doyle has worked hard to put our state in the position to create jobs again.

Governor Doyle has now signed into law virtually every major piece of legislation called for under "Grow Wisconsin" – including financial modernization legislation, tax reforms to help manufacturers pay the rising costs of energy, a bill to increase venture capital available to Wisconsin's entrepreneurs, the single sales factor tax reform bill which repealed the tax penalty on companies that create jobs, and the most aggressive regulatory reform in the Midwest.

From funding the BioStar initiative to expanding access to technology zone tax credits, Governor Doyle is capitalizing on Wisconsin's leadership in research, biotechnology, and stem cells, and laying the foundation for a vast expansion in high tech jobs.

Strattec Corner

by Al Olivares

Hello Brothers and Sisters,

As all of us are aware, this summer is absolutely grueling. So please be careful and if you are having a particularly hard time, please see your work group leader as soon as possible. Safety is of the utmost concern for all of us!!!!!! As far as ongoing things at Strattec De Milwaukee everything is pretty much status quo. The new business that the company has spoke of is still, to the best of my knowledge, on its way to implementation. However, there are some questions arising as to where the actual manufacturing will take place. As far as I know, nothing is guaranteed for the Milwaukee facility. I know that pretty much stinks for us if they choose to, or are directed to do it elsewhere. We can only hope that the cards fall in our favor and we can maintain our survival.

As I write this, the company is holding a corn roast for all of the employees. Now, in typical fashion I am hearing the usual grumblings about how some people will not go, and others are claiming that the company is wasting our EVA etc...etc...blah blah blah. My opinion of that is why not just take it for what it is, a picnic. I am not always the most optimistic person, and we all have our days with our crabby pants on, but for crying out loud, STOP WHINING and enjoy the dang picnic! What's the big deal? Just because the company is hosting it and you choose to attend that makes you a bad Union brother or sister? Hell no it doesn't!!!!!! We can all walk around here and be resentful about things, and some of us with good reason, but that will not solve our current issues. Mainly our own survival! Like I said, don't get me wrong, I am nobody to preach, I have my bad days too, where I just sit there and whine up a storm, but at the end of the day I have to get paid and the job has to get done, a very simple equation. I am sure some of you are calling me all different kinds of names at this point, and to you folks, you have your right to your own opinion. In turn, I have that same right. All I am really trying to say is, if you think that the company is acting improperly, then let us try to be the more dignified individuals and show them that we can be a class act. By that I mean, do not pitch a fit about a corn roast picnic!!!!!! They could have very easily done nothing at all, and the same group of whiners would be crying that the company SHOULD have had a picnic. Just goes to show you that some people are never satisfied and love to hear themselves boo hoo about everything. Let's not get caught up in all the trivial things, but keep our eye on the bigger prize, keeping Strattec De Milwaukee going with our members as employees.

That's it for me, Brothers and Sisters, so enjoy the rest of summer and be safe. Remember, if you are the ones disagreeing with my thought process or just flat calling me a brown noser or something to that effect, please feel free to talk to me and ask me why I think this way. I will be more than happy to share with you the things I have learned about these processes since I took office in our local Union as a Bargaining Committee member. Here is my e-mail address for those of you who are not comfortable with personal encounters.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

It appears the company excluded the $750 lump sum bonus when calculating the vacation average for fiscal '07. The early position the company is taking is this was a bonus and should not be used to calculate the vacation average. Our position is the $750 is wages for the first year of the contract and should be calculated into the vacation average. Hopefully, we can get this resolved on our own.

Vacation in department 77 is still a hot issue. People are struggling to get time off. In the meantime, there are about 100 hours of overtime per week due to increased orders. The company did, however, reduce two people because they shifted pre-packs and kitting to Mexico. More work orders are coming through the distribution warehouse, which is causing personnel problems. I plan on scheduling a meeting with the manager and Vice President Al Evseichik to get a game plan so we don't have contract violations and so we don't lose any orders.

The company has hired a few more people. Before they did that, they recalled the one member that was on voluntary layoff. One of the jobs was due to an increase in ADAC work. The rest was to replace retirees.

In Die Cast, we continue to have scheduling problems. One month we are on mandatory 9 hours a day. The next week, orders are done by Tuesday and the company is daily transferring members to different jobs or out of the department. On the plus side, however, that does allow more members to receive vacation time.

I hope everyone is enjoying their summer and I hope to see everyone at Labor fest.

In solidarity,
Karl Schneider

2006 WORKERS COMP BENEFIT RATES – THEY'VE CHANGED

As of January 1, 2006, the new workers compensation bill had not been passed by the legislature. Therefore, under the rules of the statutes, the maximum temporary total disability rate for injuries after 1/1/06, dropped to $676.00 per week (tax free). The new workers compensation bill became law on April 1, 2006. The new maximum temporary total disability rate for the rest of this year is $744.00 per week (tax free) for injuries after 4/1/06. An injured worker's temporary total disability rate is determined by multiplying the gross weekly wage by two-thirds. This is the amount the worker is paid up to the maximum rate.

Permanent partial disability rates are considered by the Worker's Compensation Division to be $242.00 per week for injuries between January 1, 2006 and March 31, 2006. As of April 1, 2006, the permanent partial disability rate is now $252.00 per week for the balance of this year (tax free).

The benefit rate that applies to an employee is always determined by the date on which the employee was injured. The date of injury controls.

Wellness Corner - "You can't live without it" Warm weather and back pain: What's the connection?

Warm weather and back pain: What's the connection?

Warm weather provides the opportunity for more exercise out of doors. Activities such as gardening, biking and tennis involve much more bending; twisting and reaching than our bodies may be prepared for.

A few aches and pains may be a normal response to doing a little too much as a weekend warrior.

Persistent aches and chronic pain especially back pain requires attention. To make your summer activities as fun and enjoyable as possible, take the time to prepare your body for the physical activity. Start by setting a realistic goal around what you want to accomplish.

- Begin by stretching before your activity
- Be aware of your body mechanics during the task and take the time to use correct form and safe postures
- Alternate your body positions and avoid fixed postures for a long period of time
- Take intermittent breaks and drink plenty of water

Oh, my aching back!

You've taken all the precautions to prepare your body for the physical activities you enjoy, but still have nagging back pain. This is not uncommon. Persistent back pain sometimes does not have a single obvious cause. It can be a result of a combination of factors. Chiropractic, acupuncture and massage are three common treatment approaches that individuals with back pain turn to for help.

Many factors can contribute to back pain, but with your surge into summer activities it is often related to an unnoticed pre-existing condition aggravated by increased activity or a combination of problems such as inadequate fitness, the desire to do too much at one time, heavy lifting and poor posture. If you have concerns you may want to see an Aurora chiropractor to assess your spinal health. According to Dr. Eric Kirk, clinical director of Chiropractic Services at Aurora Health Care, small unnoticed spinal problems often lead to neck or back pain.

The Chiropractic Care division of Aurora Health Care offers free spinal screenings. This non-invasive, painless, 5-minute screening can identify many underlying and potential problems, which may not even be symptomatic yet. Proactive spinal health is important for maintaining your spine through out your life.

Stop hurting and start healing with a Free Spinal Screening

- Five-minute one-on-one time with Aurora chiropractor
- All 96 joints of the spine are assessed
- Range of motion in the neck, shoulders and spine is measured
- No patient history or body system review is necessary.
